SENIOR POEM

*When our last class is over
And our books have been laid away;
When we receive our diplomas
On our own commencement day,
We shall rest, and how we shall need it!
For we've studied our lessons galore.
We shall rest for a month or more,
Then we shall be ready to work
As hard as ever before.*

*Now that we've passed we are happy,
For we've won the grades we've made,
There's a day that is awaiting each senior,
Some place his work to fulfill;
When there's a hard task to tackle,
When there's some distant goal to be won,
We will think of our senior motto
And remember, "It can be done."*

—Mary Ruth Armstrong, Poet

IRENE COLLINS

Irene's charms, cheery smiles, and winning ways have won for her a permanent place in the hearts of the Class of '24. Every one admires her for her sterling qualities. She is a friend to everyone, and is always ready to greet you with a smile. Her enthusiasm and pep has made her one of our most valuable members. Staying in the "same old rut" does not appeal to her, and she is always willing to start something new, provided she thinks it is worth while. Entrusting a task to her is ample proof that it will be successfully completed. We feel safe in saying that we never would have had an Annual had it not been for her tireless efforts.

MARGARET COLEY

Margaret, the prettiest girl in school, is the same sweet girl wherever you see her. She has worked with us since her second year in high school, and has always been ready and willing to do her part. She has many qualities of a true student, including a charming personality and an infinite patience, by which she has won the love and friendships of all her classmates. To Margaret is due the praise for such bright hopes for our successful future.

TEMPIE COLSTON

"Temp" is a girl with a smile for every occasion and an occasion for every minute in the day. She is always the same genial, happy-hearted girl, who gains the admiration of many. Her unselfishness, her loyalty, and her perseverance have succeeded in making her one of our most faithful members. "Temp's" complete mastering of the Teacher-Training Course indicates that she will meet success in the field of education. We wish her the best o' luck.

ESTELLE ELLEN

We are proud of the fact that we have one girl in our class with curls. We are proud, not only of her curls, but of her—Estelle. Though laughing and jolly, she devotes much of her time to the worth-while things. She shows much Class spirit and is always willing to go as the Class goes. Her sweet disposition and charming personality help her in winning friends wherever she goes. Whether the task be great or small she is always ready and willing to do her part. What would we do without her?

NOLIA FORSYTHE

Nolia, one of our most faithful workers, is especially fond of History and English. Her classmates will remember her as a careful and honest student, who was entirely independent in her work. If such qualities as truthfulness, faithfulness, and determination help a person to succeed, then, Nolia need have no fear of failure. When she has work to do, she does it; then she has plenty of time for fun. Nolia's motto is "A stitch in time saves nine."

JAMES GLENN

Although James came here from another state, he is not a foreigner. He has made many friends since he has been in our midst. He is a "star" both on the Class and on the football field. When he says "Boys, let's go," you may be sure that something is going to happen, James is eager to listen to others gab, but has very little to say himself. We are sorry that this is the only year that he has spent among us, for he is, indeed, a great help in all class activities. We wish him much success in his study of medicine at U. N. C.

ESTELLE LAUGHTER

Estelle is always willing and ready to do anything that is for the betterment of the Class. She is never found idle. If she is not studying, she is reading some good book. Her winning personality makes her welcome everywhere. If she possesses a temper, we have never discovered it. When around her, it is impossible for anyone to wear a long face, for with her jokes and laughter she drives the blues away. We predict a bright future for Estelle in whatever line of work she chooses.

WELDON MATTHEWS

"Buck," as he is known to his companions, is a person of high ambition. He is one who shares sorrow with those who are sad and rejoices with those who are glad. The phrase, "I can't," is not in his vocabulary; but the one, "I'll try," is quite familiar. He has many friends at Red Oak and will make others wherever he goes. We are expecting great things from him. Someday we will be calling him Dr. Matthews instead of just, "Buck."

LINDA GRAY MELTON

Linda Gray has been with us only two years, but during that time she has meant a great deal to the Class. She studies and always works—not only to get high grades, but to really accomplish something worth while. All who know her admire her on account of her splendid qualities. The fact that she was voted the best all-round girl in high school proves that Linda Gray holds a high place in the esteem of her fellow students. We feel sure that success awaits her in whatever field of work she decides to enter.

LESSIE ROSE

Here's to Lessie, a pal good and true, who is always looking on the bright side of life. She never grumbles, but goes on and does her duty. Music is her hobby, and nothing gives her more pleasure than good music. She is always ready to do her part and help those in need. The fact that she has a prominent part in the Senior Play shows her ability. We, the Class of '24, have found her to be a true, honest, and loyal member. We are sure that she will find success wherever she goes.

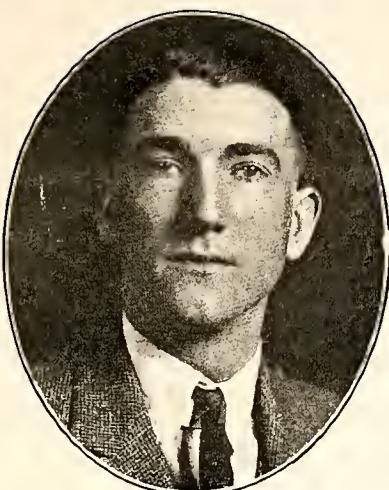

LINWOOD STURDIVANT

"Red" has been with us for only one year, but has won many friends. Although "Red" is very much interested in athletics and is very successful along that line, he does not let it take all of his time from his school work. We shall follow him with interest as he pursues his course through college, and wish him the greatest success in whatever he undertakes.

LIZZIE TYSON

Wherever you see Lizzie, she is always happy for her motto is, "No need to worry." Her cheery smile and glad word leaves a happy feeling in the heart of everyone she meets. Even the very atmosphere around Lizzie seems to be filled with her quiet, attentive, and dignified manner. Her dignity, however, does not keep her from enjoying a good joke, even if it is on herself. Her sweet disposition has won for her a warm place in the hearts of her classmates.

HARRY WHITE

Harry, better known among the boys of Red Oak as "Ichabod" from "Hoyd" county, is the champion reader of our class. He never sits around idle; when he has finished his work he spends the remainder of his time reading. During his two years at Red Oak he has won the respect and admiration of his classmates. Harry has a mind of his own and an opinion on every subject. We feel sure that there is a place somewhere which he will fill in the near future.

A few weeks later, while in China I was in a railroad accident. Although I was not hurt, several were injured seriously. The doctor was called immediately and surely enough, he was our South Carolinian, James Glenn, now one of the greatest surgeons in the world, and with him his ever willing nurse, Lizzie Tyson. I was very much interested in both and also the patients; so called the next morning and found a noted missionary sent over by our Southern Baptist Convention. Who? Yes, it really was Rev. Harry White, and with him his ever ready co-worker, Miss Linda Gray Melton. Think of it, these four in China, helping in every way the cause of humanity!

I came back to America by the way of the Pacific Ocean, and while in California visited Hollywood, where I found our handsome William Ricks a movie star in western pictures. He threatens to rival even William Hart.

Leaving California I stopped in Reno, Nevada, for a few days, and visited, among other places, the grand court house, where I found, on the bench, none other than our great orator, "Duck" Vick, and with him his leading lawyer, Alvin Hasty, deciding divorce cases. I visited also, the city library. Here I noticed several little reading rooms, and in one of them a lady who looked familiar. Considering it a fancy, I would have passed on had she not spoken to me. I then learned that she was our dear little Poet of Class '24, Mary Ruth Armstrong. In the course of our conversation she told me that she was just finishing her first book of poems.

In Denver, Colorado, I learned that Miss Estelle Laughter was principal of public schools. Accepting my invitation, she visited Boulder University with me where we found another of our old R. O. girls still Miss Beulah Vick, Dean of Women.

While in Chicago, I had business in one of the leading department stores, and due to an inevitable mistake I was sent to the booker, who proved to be the ever-conscientious Bessie Edwards.

My next stop of importance was Asheville, N. C. I was somewhat tired, and wishing to be alone to think, I walked about two miles out into the country, and imagine my delight when I recognized in the trim young woman coming towards me, our born teacher, Nolia Forsythe. She was teaching in a little school up there in the quiet of the mountains, and said that she was perfectly happy and would always remain in the Old North State.

Raleigh, ever nearing home! I dropped into the Red Cross Cafeteria for supper and found the same quiet, lovable girl, Mary Beal, dietician.

The next day I drove over to Wake Forest, my last town for work, and

HISTORY OF CLASS OF '24

On a beautiful September morning in the year 1920, the Class of '24, a green and bewildered group numbering fifty-seven entered Red Oak High School. Although our first year was marked by many crazy experiences, on our part, causing the amusement of the more experienced students, it was also remarkable for many changes. During this year the present high school building was completed, and it was with much pleasure that we left the old building to the elementary grades. To this year also belongs the organization of Red Oak's first football team.

When we met as Sophs the next Fall, we realized that we had lost, not only our honorary member, Miss Benton, but many of our own number as well. But under the leadership of Mr. Kesler, our new honorary member, and with our energetic spirit, we determined to show the rest of the school that our days of insignificance had ended with the fading of our greenness. We proved this on the athletic field, where several of our members "starred," as well as in the class room.

Returning for our junior year, we found things much as they had been before, in many respects. We still had our same superintendent, Mr. Creech, and our former principal, Mr. Young. Although several more of our members failed to return, others came to join us, so our number was not greatly changed. The Valentine party given in our honor by Miss Boyd, our new honorary member, and Mary Beal; as well as the campfire supper at Riverside Park, at which time we entertained the seniors of '23, are events to be remembered during this year.

When the Fall of 1923 found us at Red Oak in the role of seniors, we learned that our ranks were considerably thinner than the year before, yet we numbered twenty-eight, the largest senior class in the history of the school. At this time we found plenty of work in store for us, for in addition to our regular school work, there was the senior play, which we gave in February, and also the annual, which we published in the Spring. But realizing that, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," Miss Boyd, still our honorary member, little Ellen McIntyre, our Mascot, the Junior Class, and several of our other friends delightfully entertained us on various occasions.

Looking back now as we come to the parting of the ways, we realize how much we have enjoyed our four years together, and feel that the time spent here has not been in vain, but of the utmost profit to us.

FENTRICE WARD, Historian.

Thirty-three

Beulah Vick wills to Mary Capps the honor of being a man-hater.

Bessie Edwards wills to Ruth Faulkner her frowns, hard looks, and distaste for laughing and giggling.

Margaret Coley wills her get thin formula to Irene Hollinsworth.

William Ricks wills to Dock May, the honor of being the handsomest boy, and also his secret method of making all the girls crazy about him.

Weldon Matthews wills to Lilly Collins the privilege of choosing as his successor, Robert Hasty, and hopes that she will find him as true to her as she now thinks Weldon is.

Roy Denson wills his exceptional athletic ability to William Avent, since this is the only thing William lacks to make him an all-round man.

Rufus Joyner wills to Mary Pullen his position in the dining hall.

Mary Beal wills to Lillie Lewis her room mate, Gladys Coley.

Selma Roebuck wills to Sallie Warren her title of "the biggest flirt," and her ability to have dates and ride in coupes during study hours.

Odell Cooper wills to Berta Jones her room No. 18 in the dormitory.

Alvin Hasty wills to Walter Tharrington his short trousers which he joyfully discards forever, and his title of "precious."

Lillie May Coley wills to Una Mae Dickens her dignity and musical talents.

Harry White wills to Hannis Warren his privileges and the axe which he daily swings.

Nolia Forsythe wills to Daisy Moore her Outline Course of Study and her privilege of teaching.

Estelle Ellen wills to Mamie Griffin her long and curly tresses.

The successful love affair of Linda Gray Melton's, Lindsay Gray refuses to will to anyone, but insists on taking it with her.

Tempie Colston wills to Jake Dickens her unusual writing ability.

James Glenn wills to Alexander Currin his charming disposition and his position as truck driver.

Alton Reid wills to Bernard Stainback his brilliancy.

Irene Collins wills to Juanita Sturdivant, not only her good grades on French, but also the privilege of attending every tutor class, with the hopes that Juanita will enjoy them as much as she has.

APPRECIATION

The Staff is taking this page for itself in order to express its sincere appreciation to those who have helped in any way the progress of the pages of this little book. To the Seniors, who have given such loyal co-operation; to our community friends, whose interest and enthusiasm has "kept us at it;" to the members of the faculty, who have advised and encouraged us; to the business men of the surrounding counties, who have given ads; and, most of all, to these who have worked every day with us, seemingly untiringly and persistently, Miss Boyd and Miss Jones, we extend our heartfelt gratitude and appreciation.

FOREWORD

AS Father Time leaves with his fatal sword the marks of age, will you re-turn the pages of our little volume, on which are stamped in unfading colors, the deeper trend of memory's dream? We leave our truer, nobler thoughts for you, our friends, and as we drift with the raging tide of life through realms as yet unknown, may you think with rising pride of our little class of '24!

IN WINTER

*In winter, the leaves are gone, the trees are bare,
And in the snow is seen the track of the hare.
We wear our coats and roll down our sleeves,
But still we are busy as a big swarm of bees.*

*We sing and we laugh, we work and we play,
We study our lessons "most" every day.
Then, Red Oak is not a dull little town,
It's very much alive when students are around.*

ELEMENTARY BUILDING

TO RED OAK

*Dear old Red Oak, the good old school,
Has stood the test of time;
It has been established here
Since about eighteen hundred seventy-nine.*

*Because the school has many friends
It has progressed very rapidly;
These friends have helped the school to win
Many a hard won victory.*

*We students love our school,
And the friends that helped it, too;
We know Red Oak will never fail,
For we will see it through.*

—Edgar High, '25

MISS INEZ BOYD
Honorary Member

Miss Inez Boyd came here with a splendid record from Meredith College, having received an A. B. degree there. The second year she was here we chose her as our honorary member, and as she was so faithful to us we elected her again this year as our leader. She not only helps us in anything we undertake to do, but also sacrifices her valuable time for us. She deserves the credit for the success of this little book, the first of its kind in the history of the Red Oak High School. All members of the Class love her and feel sure that they have a leader of whom they should be proud indeed. Our good wishes will follow her wherever she goes.

MARY RUTH ARMSTRONG

Mary Ruth is the type of girl that takes life and its trials in a very cheerful way. In the classroom, or on the campus, she is always the same, never excited, although enthusiasm has its "unit" in the "square" of her personality. Her disposition is sweet, and she must keep her temper well under cover, for we have never discovered it. In her class work she is very good; and, due to her poetical nature and vivid imagination, she was chosen Class Poet. May her future be as bright as her past has been.

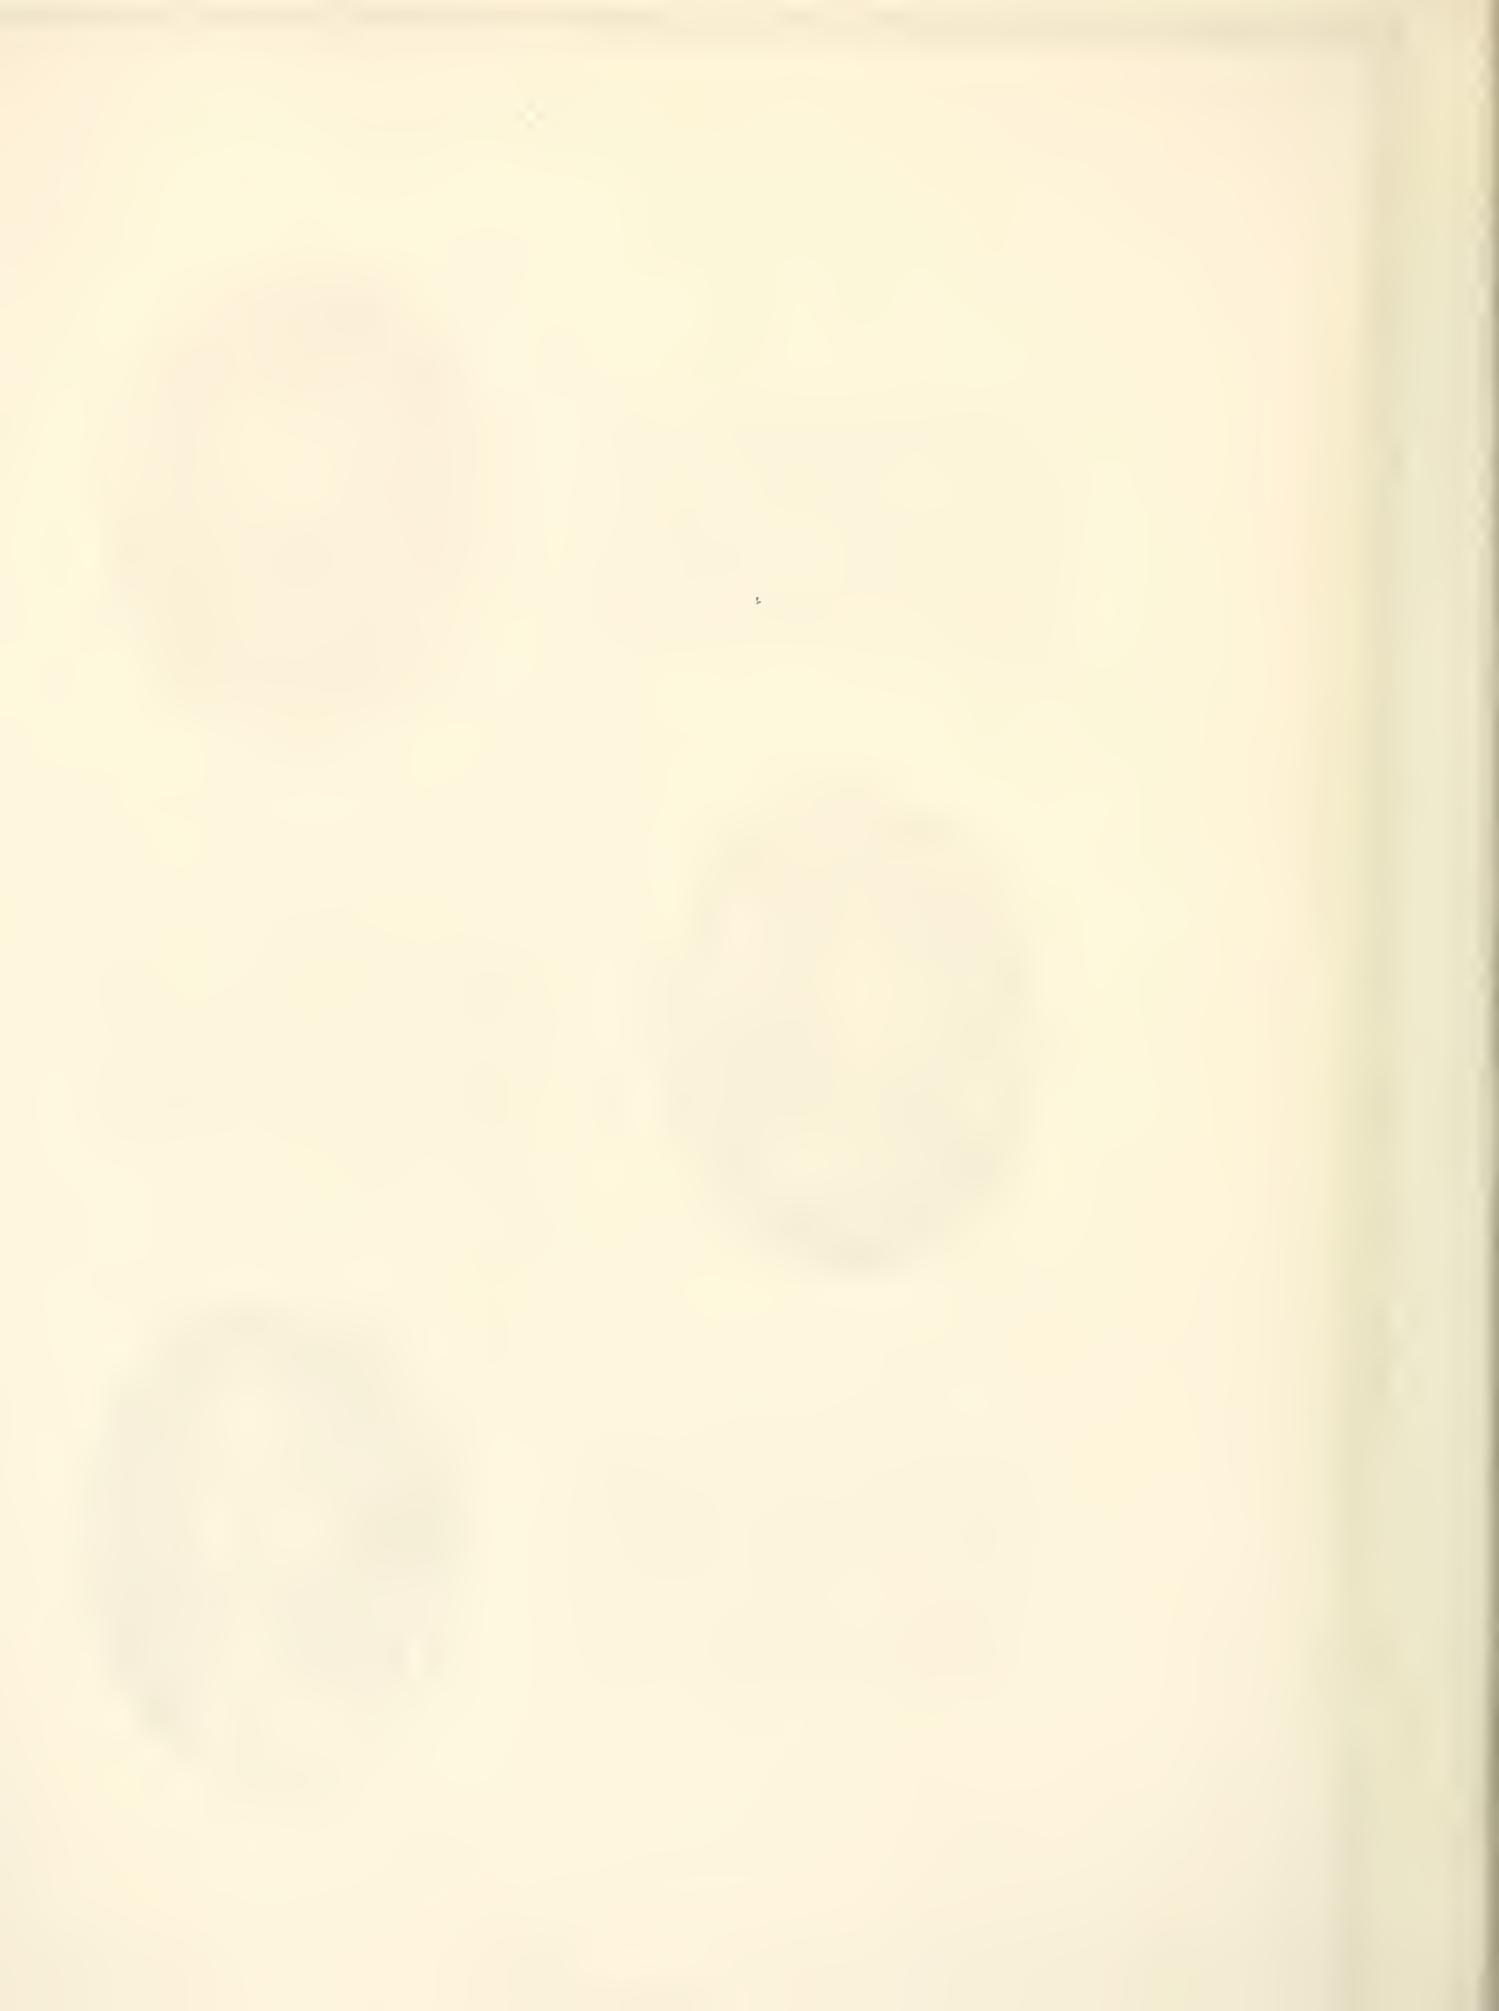

MARY BEAL

Here's to Mary, a faithful and sincere member of the Senior Class! We all love her, and wish her the greatest success wherever she goes. Mary is always ready to enter into anything the class undertakes, with the determination to make it something worth while. She is a helpful friend, who is willing to sacrifice her time for someone else. She never grumbles at anything, but always takes her fortune or misfortune in a calm way. We appreciate her loyalty and dependability.

LILLIE MAE COLEY

Lillie May is one of our Seniors whom you have to know to appreciate, for she is so quiet and unassuming that her many desirable characteristics are not clearly perceived by the casual observer. Although she carries heavy work and is so conscientious that she is usually occupied with her lessons, she is never too busy to lend her support to anything that the class undertakes. Our best wishes follow her as she leaves our midst to pursue her course of imparting knowledge to others.

ODELL COOPER

To know Odell is to love her. She has been a loyal member of the Class of '24 during her high school career. To be her friend is a great pleasure, and if she has any enemies it would take a detective to find them. Although she is very studious, she is always willing to sacrifice her time to help someone else. As an athlete she is a star. We wonder what the future has in store for this loyal classmate of ours.

ROY DENISON

If we were all as loyal and thoughtful as Roy, and were willing to translate that loyalty into deeds, we would most certainly be an admirable class. He works at everything else, too, with the same untiring efforts. Lessons bother him not at all; and we feel that if he would wake up, he would make a splendid athlete.

BESSIE EDWARDS

Bessie is a girl whom we all love. She is always willing to help others and has the ability to use her willingness to an advantage. She is a girl of great ambition and determination, and when determined to do a thing, she never stops until the task is completed. She is a good student, her favorite study being History. Although she excels the other girls in the brain-racking study, Geometry, she does not spend all her time studying. When she is not in school Bessie devotes much of her time to sewing.

HENRY GRADY

"Up North" talks a great deal, but since he always has a good word to say about everyone, we can forgive him for this. When Grady came to Red Oak we did not know that a star athlete was entering the school, but his prominence in football and basketball this year has opened our eyes. He was voted the most conceited, but has reason to be conceited, for was he not also voted the most popular? Grady makes friends easily and keeps them without trouble. We feel quite honored that he left New York to join our Class.

ALVIN HASTY

Alvin is one of the most brilliant seniors. He is never found idle, and although he's his "mother's p't," we don't think he's at all conceited. Since his highest ambition is donning long trousers, we'll find him shining commencement night. As he always sees the bright side of any question, we are assured of his success during and after the period of his law course.

RUFUS JOYNER

When we think of Rufus, we think of one of our most able classmates, for he has proved his ability by completing four years' work in three. The fact that he was voted the most studious person in high school shows that he does not mind work. Although Rufus' hours have been full, he has never been too busy to accommodate a friend. When one asks him to do a thing, he may be sure that it will be done, and done well. We are sure Rufus will find in life the great success and happiness we wish for him.

ALTON REID

Seldom has a student been so popular with his fellow students and had as many honors conferred upon him as has Alton; but such is to be expected when we consider his ability, his gentlemanly manners and his sincere endeavors to do his best in all he undertakes. The fact that he was President of our Class during our Junior year, twice President of the O. Henry Literary Society, Editor-in-Chief of "The Red Oak Leaves," together with scores of other honors, proves his exceptional executive ability. We feel sure that it is these same qualities that will make his life a success.

WILLIAM RICKS

William, better known by his friends as "Jew," has made a great record at Red Oak, not only in books, but in athletics as well. He is always ready for anything, whether to study or skip school. Because of his good nature, popularity, scholarship and executive ability, he was elected President of the Class. "Jew's" black, curly hair and handsome face help him vamp all the girls, then he leaves them broken-hearted for his "climax." You will never find a better friend or sport than "Jew." No one who has known him for any length of time has missed hearing the interesting account of his thrilling adventures "Out West."

SELMA ROEBUCK

Selma, the shining star of our Class, is liked by all who know her, hence the title, "the biggest flirt," not gained by flirting, but in an effort to be a friend to everyone. She also gained the title of "the most original," which we all agree is rightfully hers. We are proud of the fact that the author of such literary work as Selma's is a member of our Class. We look forward to her short stories just as we look forward to reading her books and stories in the years to come.

BEULAH VICK

Even though Beulah is a very quiet and modest girl, she believes in having a good time. She is sincere and does not pretend to be what she is not. Beulah has a great deal of originality, which helps her in writing some very interesting compositions. Nothing gives her greater pleasure than reading, and even those books that seem dull and dry to others have a strange fascination for her. Although she is a "man hater" at the present, we think there will be quite a change in the future when the right one appears on the scene.

JOHНИE VICK

"Duck" has a charming personality, a bright mind, a happy disposition, and a sparkle in the eye that denotes mischief. He likes fun in school or out, and usually finds it. Everyone is his friend, because he is a friend to everybody. He is a great ladies' man and holds the record for heart "smashing" in Red Oak. "Duck" has also distinguished himself in athletics, starring in football, basketball and baseball. The world is hungry for such men as "Duck," and we feel sure that he is destined to bring much honor to us in the future, when he becomes Judge of the Superior Court. We are glad that he is going to be a speaker rather than a writer, for then he won't have to spell all the words he uses.

FENTRICE WARD

We Seniors are indeed fortunate in having Fentrice as a member of our Class. His determination, perseverance, sincerity and loyalty have won for him the love and respect of the entire student body. His friends are numbered by the score; and no wonder, since his motto is, "A friend in need is a friend indeed." Although Fentrice does not care for a college career, we feel sure that his education will not cease when he leaves Red Oak. We are loath to part with him, and know that the community to which he goes will be greatly enriched by his presence.

PROPHECY OF CLASS OF '24

Ah, dear little memory book! For fifteen years I have kept you, and now I will record to you the most interesting and thrilling events of my life.

I am President of the North Carolina Woman's Club and the United States Government has sent me, within the last two years, to study social conditions in America and Europe.

I left my home in Nash County for New York, where I was to board a steamer for Cadiz, France. I stopped over in Baltimore for a few days, and while aimlessly walking down the street, I stumbled into a beauty parlor, where I found, dabbling in the most delicate cosmetics, one of our old Red Oak Seniors, Lillie Mae Coley.

Upon reaching New York, I purchased my passport, and was to sail within three hours, when I was called from my room to the phone. I was told that it was the President of the White Star Steamship Company who wished an interview; thinking it a strictly business proposition I named the hour. About thirty minutes later whom should I see coming toward me but Hon. Henry Grady of old Red Oak days. Yes, I recognized him, but I didn't recognize the lady with him. Imagine my surprise when I learned that he was President of White Star Steamship Company and that the lady was Odell Cooper, his Private Secretary. Grady had recognized my picture on the passport as it passed, accidentally, over his desk, and had called, bringing over our old friend, Odell.

A few days later, I landed in Cadiz, France, and immediately went to Paris. One of my friends asked me to accompany her to the big fashion show of the season. I did, and learned that the dazzlingly beautiful Spring creations had been designed by our own classmate, Madame Tempie Colston.

My next stop was in Venice, Italy. I decided to take special note of European operas, so dropped into one of the leading ones of this city. I happened to a box very near the stage. The young singer and her accompanist seemed very familiar to me, and I found before the delightful evening wore to a close that this wonderful woman, whose voice filled the enormous opera house, was none other than our own Mademoiselle Estelle Ellen, and her accomplished accompanist was Lessie Rose.

there learned that our brilliant Alton Reid was President, and Roy Denson Professor of Psychology.

Home, Rocky Mount! Now to report to headquarters, after which my task would be completed. I went to the Planters National Bank to have a check cashed, and bumped into Linwood Sturdivant, Cashier of that bank. While talking over old times with him, Fentrice Ward, a typical up-to-date farmer, who was coming to deposit his cash for safe keepin', entered.

After leaving the bank, I realized that I had a slight headache; so went to Rose's Drug Store and asked for the druggist. He was very slow about coming, and when he did appear before me, dear, faithful Rufus Joyner, and at his shoulder Dr. W. E. Matthews, married to his profession.

I felt as if my journey would not be complete 'til I had seen, through more experienced eyes, our old Red Oak, so I called another of our Seniors, Irene Collins, now Mrs. Clarence Beal of Red Oak, and invited myself down for a few days. She was living in a lovely home on Beal street, while farther down where Mr. McIntyre used to live, in a large, brick home, lived our still pretty Margaret Jones, for Sidney had been successful, after all. These were the two little love nests of the Class of '24.

Dear Old Red Oak, though greatly changed, plainly shows signs of progress, for several brick buildings stand where the old ones were. May they send out into the busy world each year a class of young men and women who will respond as readily to the call of humanity as did the Class of '24.

I am happy; once more I have seen the dear familiar face and heard the thrilling voice of each member of our Class. All seem happy in their individual corners of the world where they are living lives of service in the many branches of life. As the curtain of Time falls, we leave them lingering in the brightest rays of happiness and love.

Last Will and Testament of Class of '24

We, the Senior Class of Red Oak High School, upon leaving our beloved school to venture into strange and unknown realms, having certain possessions of various kinds which must needs be disposed of, take this means of bequeath-ing to the school, underclassmen and friends, the following named and described articles:

To the School, we leave our good wishes for success in its task of making the boys and girls of today into the strong, honorable, and worthy men and women of tomorrow. We leave our promise that we will make it the rule of our lives to conduct ourselves in the future in a way that will add honor to the institution we love and respect above all others.

To the Faculty, we leave our sincerest appreciation of all that they have done for us during these four years. They have ever been our friends, and have made our hardships easier to bear.

To Mr. and Mrs. Young, we leave our wishes for many years of happiness.

To Miss Boyd, we leave our undying devotion and gratitude in apprecia-tion of the love and patience that she has shown us during the two years that she has been our honorary member. We wish for her and Joe much happiness in the future years.

To Mr. Tatum, we leave entire freedom from all study-hall duties, and the privilege of calling on Miss Baley once every week.

To Miss Hedgepeth, we leave the privilege of keeping all the dormitory mail in the Library until 3:45 P. M.

To Miss White, we leave all the sweaters on warm days.

To Mrs. Hasty, we leave an ideal group of boys and girls who will always be on time for meals, never break the china, nor spill anything on the table cloths.

To the Junior Class, we leave all the supposed glories, honors, and special privileges of seniority, and hope that they will find the fulfillment of all their hopes.

To the Sophomore Class, we leave the privilege of putting up their Class Colors next Spring.

To the Freshman Class, we leave three more years of hard work.

To each of the Juniors, our natural heirs, we leave the following:

Henry Grady wills to Thomas Taylor the special privilege of getting excused from school on various afternoons to canvass the country for annual ads.

Linwood Sturdivant wills to George Thomas Strickland the privilege of skipping study hall to attend the movies.

Johnie Vick would like to will to Hannis Warren the midnight oil that he has burned, but since this is gone forever, he wills him his untiring efforts and diligent work while it was being consumed.

Estelle Laughter wills to Atherleen Grimsley her books and good grade on Geometry.

Mary Ruth Armstrong wills to Harvey Coley her poetical talent.

Lizzie Tyson wills her sweetness and wonderful class spirit to Pauline Coppedge.

Lessie Rose leaves to Maggie Tharrington her loud and penetrating voice, as well as her pep, which the latter lacks.

Fentrice Ward wills to Hannis Warren his broom and position of "Jack of all trades" around the school.

And now having disposed of all that we care to, we do hereby and hereunto affix our seal as an attestation of our bequeathment so made.

THE SENIOR CLASS,

ESTELLE LAUGHTER, Attorney

ATHLETICS

Athletic sports are being stressed more each year by private and public institutions. The trend toward greater development of mass activities is much in evidence. People are realizing more and more that the greatest advantages come from the combination of an educated mind and body.

The first requisite to clean living and clean thinking is to be athletic. These two essentials are greatly stressed by all authorities. This should be especially true of all high school athletics.

The high schools of the State are developing much competition in various branches of sports; but to play the game for the sake of the game should be the goal, and not merely to win at any cost.

J O K E S

EARLY WESTER went to Rocky Mount the other day to get a hair-cut. The barber, having cut his hair, asked, "Have a shampoo?" "No, thank you," replied Earl, "You may put one in a bag. Some of the boys back in Red Oak may like 'em."

* *

RED STURDIVANT: "Say, White, where did you get that long, white suit?"

WHITE: "You fool, these are pajamas."

SPEED COP to WILLIAM AVENT: "Say, son, where are you going?"

WILLIAM: "I am going to fly if I get much faster."

ESTELLE ELLEN (at board trying to prove a Geometry problem which she has forgotten).

MISS PRICE: "Class, tell Estelle what she wants to do now."

Alvin, quickly: "She wants to come to her seat."

JAKE DICKENS: "Kid, where did you get those large napkins?"

KID EVANS: "Idiot, those are bed-sheets."

MISS PATRICK (to a pupil): "Spell habit."

"H-a-h—" (spelled the pupil), and then hesitated, as if he did not know what came next.

MISS PATRICK (trying to give him an idea): "What have I on each side of my nose?"

"I don't know," replied the pupil, "but it looks like powder from here."

On his first visit to Wake Forest, Curtis Edwards was looking around the college. He spied the top of a church, on which was a large dome. Curtis, not knowing what this was, exclaimed, "This is a nice church, but why in the world did they want to put the water on top of it."

* *

MISS LANG: "Luther, how old would a person be who was born in 1890?"

LUTHER: "Man or woman?"

EDGAR HIGH: "William, how do you like the 'grub' at the dormitory?"

WILLIAM: "Not much; I eat so much canned 'stuff' I even hate to ride in a Ford (tin can)."

MISS BEAL: "The Battle of King's Mountain was the turning point of the war."

EARL WESTER: "Miss Beal, what did they do; go up there and turn around and come back?"

* *

JAMES McDONALD: "Say, Boh, did you hear about William Eatmon breaking the speed limit the other night?"

ROBERT HASTY: "No; what about it?"

JAMES: "For breaking the speed limit while the fight was going on."

* *

HENRY GRADY, seeing the dew sparkling on the grass one morning, cried out: "O, Mr. Tatum, look how hot it is! The grass is dripping with perspiration."

CICERO SEARS: "Irene, dear, I would give five dollars for one of your kisses."

IRENE: "Gracious."

CICERO: "What's the matter, have I hurt your feelings?"

IRENE: "No; I am just grieving over the fortune I gave James Glenn last night."

* *

WILLIAM (telling a ghost story to the class, "I had been to milk the cow, and was coming out of the stall when the ghost appeared.")

LISTENER: "Did you shake?"

WILLIAM: "I don't know, but when I stopped running I did not have any milk in the pail, but two pounds of butter instead."

* *

MISS BONNER: "Who was that who laughed aloud?"

Nobody said anything. Finally, Clarence Jones said, "Miss Bonner, I did, but I didn't mean to. I laughed up my sleeve, but I didn't know it had a hole at the elbow."

The heights by great men reached and kept
Were not attained by sudden flight;
But they, while their companions slept
Were toiling upward in the night.

help you get started on the road to success
